The Mississippi Agricultural Economics Association (MAEA) invites you to Starkville to participate in its 41st annual meeting. MAEA is one of the few state agricultural economics associations in the United States and serves as a resource for the citizens of Mississippi to benefit from the expertise of economists as they examine relevant and timely issues. It also connects alumni and clientele to current faculty and students in the Department of Agricultural Economics at Mississippi State University.

The topic for this year’s meeting is Production Agriculture in 2020. The speakers at the 41st Annual MAEA meeting are uniquely situated to present future scenarios for agricultural production in Mississippi and the United States. Please join us as we continue to explore the possibilities and opportunities presented when innovation meets application.

For additional registration forms or more information, visit our website www.agecon.msstate.edu or call 1-662-325-2671
What will agricultural production look like in 2020? Agriculture is an ever-changing industry that has consistently incorporated innovative technology and technique into the production and processing of food, fiber, and energy. As we examine the future of agriculture, the intersection of technology, management, and finance will be a critical component to success.
